

YOUR JOB. YOUR VOICE. YOUR VOTE.

Elections aren't just about what you see on social media or TV. The people we elect make decisions that can reach all the way to your worksite — affecting safety, infrastructure investment, energy projects and your rights on the job.

IUOE members build the roads, bridges and infrastructure America depends on. We operate and maintain critical energy facilities. And as data centers expand across the country, Operating Engineers will be essential to keeping them running safely and reliably.

SAFE JOBS:

Strong workplace safety standards protect IUOE members operating and maintaining heavy equipment, high-voltage systems and complex industrial facilities.

GOOD UNION JOBS:

Public policy can help determine whether billions of dollars in infrastructure, energy and data-center investment create good-paying, skilled union careers.

A VOICE ON THE JOB:

Workers who choose to organize should have a meaningful opportunity to secure a first contract. The bipartisan Faster Labor Contracts Act would establish timelines for first-contract bargaining, followed by mediation and potentially arbitration if an agreement cannot be reached.

KNOW WHERE CANDIDATES STAND:

Infrastructure investment, worker safety, collective bargaining and political appointments aren't abstract political issues. They affect our jobs, our paychecks and our families.

BEFORE YOU VOTE, KNOW THE ISSUES.

You don't have to agree with a candidate on everything. But you should know where they stand on the issues that affect your livelihood.

Get informed. Get involved.
Make your voice heard.
